

Southeast Asia Studies

The Southeast Asia Studies Program and the U.S. Korea Institute at the Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies (SAIS), Johns Hopkins University, and Georgetown University invite you to a conference on

MYANMAR AND THE TWO KOREAS Dangers and Opportunities

Monday, April 11, 2011

8:30 AM – 5:30 PM

SAIS Kenney Auditorium

1740 Massachusetts Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C

Open to the Washington policy community, scholars and experts from other U.S. academic institutions and research centers, and the Georgetown University and SAIS community

The conference will illuminate important relationships between North and South Korea and Myanmar, analyze regional implications of such relationships, and seek to inform U.S. policy

Panel discussions include:

*Politics and Economics in Myanmar under a New Administration;
Myanmar-South Korean Economic and Trade Relations; Strategic Interests in Myanmar: China, India and ASEAN; Security Cooperation between Myanmar and North Korea; and What It All Means—Implications of North and South Korean Relations with Myanmar*

To RSVP, please visit: http://uskoreainstitute.org/events/?event_id=85

This conference is made possible through the major support of

With additional funding from Georgetown University, and the Southeast Asia Studies Program and the U.S. Korea Institute at SAIS

PROGRAM AGENDA

APRIL 11, 2011

- 8:00–8:45 AM Registration/Continental Breakfast
- 8:45–9:00 AM Welcoming Remarks
- Jae H. Ku, director, U.S.-Korea Institute, SAIS, Johns Hopkins University
David I. Steinberg, distinguished professor of Asian Studies, Georgetown University
William M. Wise, acting director, Southeast Asia Studies, SAIS, Johns Hopkins University
- 9:00–10:15 AM Panel I: Politics and Economics in Myanmar under a New Administration
- Chair
David I. Steinberg, distinguished professor of Asian Studies, Georgetown University
- Presenters
Bertil Lintner, journalist
Tin Maung Maung Than, senior fellow and coordinator, editor, Institute of Southeast Asian Studies (ISEAS) Working Papers; associate-editor, Contemporary Southeast Asia, ISEAS
U Khin Zaw Win, consultant and author
- 10:15–10:30 AM Coffee Break
- 10:30 AM–Noon Panel II: Myanmar-South Korean Economic and Trade Relations
- Chair
Thitinan Pongsudhirak, visiting professor, SAIS, Johns Hopkins University
- Presenters
Taeyoon Kim, Korea Institute for International Economic Policy
TBD
- 12:15–1:45 PM Luncheon Panel III: Strategic Interests in Myanmar: China, India and ASEAN
- Chair
Robert Sutter, visiting professor of Asian Studies, School of Foreign Service, Georgetown University
- Presenters
Yun Sun, China analyst, International Crisis Group, Washington, DC
TBD

2:00–4:00 PM

Panel IV: Security Cooperation between Myanmar and North Korea

Chair

Joel Wit, visiting scholar, U.S.-Korea Institute, SAIS, Johns Hopkins University

Presenters

David Albright, president, Institute for Science and International Security

Robert Kelley, author

Alexandre Y. Mansourov, visiting scholar, U.S.-Korea Institute, SAIS, Johns Hopkins University

Charles L. (Jack) Pritchard, president, Korea Economic Institute, Washington

Andrew Selth, research fellow, Griffith Asia Institute, Griffith University

4:00–5:15 PM

Panel V: What It All Means – Implications of North and South Korean Relations with Myanmar

Chair

William M. Wise, acting director, Southeast Asia Studies, SAIS, Johns Hopkins University

Presenters

Michael J. Green, senior adviser and Japan chair, CSIS; associate professor of international relations, Georgetown University

Joseph Y. Yun, deputy assistant secretary for East Asian and Pacific Affairs, U.S. Department of State

Concluding Remarks

The conference is organized by
Jae H. Ku, Director, U.S.-Korea Institute, SAIS
David I. Steinberg, Distinguished Professor of Asian Studies,
School of Foreign Service, Georgetown University
William M. Wise, Acting Director, Southeast Asia Studies Program, SAIS