Emerging Markets Specialization Requirements

Entering Class 2013-2014

1. Students electing to complement their regional concentration with an Emerging Markets (EM) specialization must fulfill the requirements from one of the following regional programs:

   Africa
   Middle East
   Asia: China/Korea/South Asia/Southeast Asia
   Western Hemisphere/Latin America

   In addition to satisfying the requirements for these regional programs—typically six courses—students must take ONE course in an EM regional program outside their area of concentration.

   NOTE: Some academic programs may allow students to take one of their six required courses outside their region if pursuing the Emerging Markets specialization. Students should consult with their regional program directors.

   Students who concentrate in International Policy Areas (IR fields, IDEV, AFP), European and Eurasian Studies, or Japan Studies and wish to add the EM Specialization may do so by taking TWO courses in the EM regional areas noted above.

2. To complete the Emerging Markets specialization, ALL students must select TWO economics courses from the following list:

   - Asian Economic Development* (320.728.20)
