SAIS LATIN AMERICAN STUDIES PROGRAM (LASP)
SUMMER INTERNSHIPS/RESEARCH FELLOWSHIPS IN LATIN AMERICA

Each summer, between 18 and 25 LASP students are placed in the region. The placements in the private, public and nonprofit sectors are as diverse as the participating students as we work closely with concentrators to identify organizations of particular interest. The internship program is designed to broaden the classroom learning experience and offer substantial field experience. These professional experiences give LASP interns an advantage in the increasingly competitive job market due to important skills learned on the job and cultural awareness gained from living in Latin America. Research fellowship proposals are also considered for stipend funding.
