“Escaping the Trilemma: Macroeconomic Constraints and the Politics of Countercyclical Credit Management”

Mark Copelovitch
University of Wisconsin

Tuesday, April 16, 2019
12:15 – 1:45 PM

Johns Hopkins University SAIS
BOB Building, Room 736
1717 Massachusetts Avenue NW, Washington, DC 20036

Mark Copelovitch is a professor in the Department of Political Science and the Robert M. La Follette School of Public Affairs at the University of Wisconsin - Madison. He has studied the politics of international trade, money, and finance. His particular interests are in the domestic and international politics of financial crises and the role of the International Monetary Fund in global financial governance. His focus is on European integration and the European Union. He is also an affiliate of the Center for European Studies and the Center for German and European Studies at UW - Madison.