The Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies
The Johns Hopkins University

Faculty Opening
South Asian Studies

Founded in 1943 and a Johns Hopkins division since 1950, The Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies of the Johns Hopkins University (SAIS) has been educating global leaders for 60 years. As a highly selective graduate institution with a distinguished faculty, SAIS consistently ranks as one of the top schools of international relations in the world. SAIS was founded to provide a practical approach to training students in international leadership and foreign relations, and to provide mid-career educational opportunities for those already working in related fields. Today, SAIS offers the M.A., M.I.P.P., and Ph.D. degrees and enrolls 650 full-time students in Washington, D.C., primarily in the school's two-year Master of Arts program. Nearly 40 percent of the students are non-citizens coming from more than 70 countries. About 200 students attend SAIS Europe in Bologna, Italy, while about 180 students attend the Hopkins-Nanjing Center in Nanjing, China. To learn more about SAIS, visit www.sais-jhu.edu.

The Position
SAIS is seeking to fill a tenure-track or tenured position (with open rank) in South Asian Studies by Fall 2014.

Qualifications
The ideal applicant will have a substantial record of research and publications in one or more of the fields of politics, political economy, development, national security, foreign policy, or history with a focus on South Asia. Preference will be given to candidates who combine outstanding academic research, excellence in teaching, and a demonstrated interest in public policy issues.

Application
A letter of application and curriculum vitae should be submitted to: SAISSouthAsiaSearch@jhu.edu. Applications will be reviewed beginning October 15, 2013.

Visit the SAIS website at www.sais-jhu.edu
Johns Hopkins University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer committed to recruiting, supporting and fostering a diverse community of outstanding faculty, staff and students. All applicants who share this goal are encouraged to apply.