

Southeast Asia Studies

Wednesday, February 13, 2013

Benjamin T. Rome Building, Room 806
1619 Massachusetts Avenue, NW
12:30 pm – 1:45 pm

Open to Southeast Asia Studies students, alumni, and invited guests. Lunch is included!

RSVP seasia@jhu.edu
by Wednesday, February 13, 10:00 AM

Join us for a discussion on

China's Dreams for Southeast Asia

with

Dr. Marvin C. Ott

Professorial Lecturer and Visiting Scholar, Southeast Asia Studies, SAIS

Dr. Marvin C. Ott is a professorial lecturer and visiting scholar in Southeast Asia Studies at the Johns Hopkins University's School of Advanced International Studies, and public policy scholar at the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars. He was professor of national security policy at the National War College and faculty fellow at the Institute for National and Strategic Studies (National Defense University). He has held positions as associate professor at Mount Holyoke College, senior manager at the Congressional Office of Technology Assessment, adjunct professor at Johns Hopkins University and American University, senior East Asia analyst at the CIA, consultant on Japan to the National Academy of Sciences, chairperson for Southeast Asia at the Foreign Service Institute (U.S. Department of State), senior associate at the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, and more recently as deputy staff director of the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence. He served in Vietnam as deputy province representative in Darlac during the war. He has authored more than 100 chapters, articles, monographs and op eds on primarily East Asian, intelligence, and technology assessment topics. He has been a regular commentator on Business Asia (CNN), and, most recently, a commentator on NPR and Radio Free Asia. He writes a biweekly foreign policy column for The Ellsworth American (Maine) and regularly lectures at the Foreign Service Institute and the Marine Corps University. He received the Meritorious Civilian Service and Meritorious Joint Unit Service awards from the U.S. Department of Defense. He attended Chung Chi College, Hong Kong, and received an M.A. and Ph.D. from SAIS.